YOUR MOMENT Awaits AT MARSHALL UNIVERSITY

Welcome TO MARSHALL!

In 1837, Marshall University was formed in Huntington, West Virginia, as one of the region's first public higher education institutions. Over the next 186 years, Marshall became a beacon for research, education and innovation by recognizing education as the great equalizer.

Students and community are of utmost importance to us, highlighted by University President Brad D. Smith's departure from Silicon Valley. Now, he charts his alma mater's path forward in the 21st Century. In its new era, Marshall is dedicated to "Marshall for all, Marshall forever."

We believe higher education should be within reach to all and are dedicated to growing student enrollment, not fees. Marshall is already named one of the most affordable universities in America, and our financial aid opportunities keep growing.

Marshall understands education is a lifelong pursuit. Anyone seeking knowledge will always have a home in our Herd, whether their goal is to receive a traditional education, to push forward in their career, or to learn hands-on in their future work environment.

We offer tailored, inclusive experiences for all of our students. We want them to dream bigger, deliver faster and define excellence, as we adapt, innovate and broaden our pathways to the workforce. Ranked in the top tier of the Best National Universities by U.S. News and World Report, we are focused on providing world-class learning opportunities from our professors on a beautiful, award-winning campus.

"As goes Marshall, so goes Huntington," means we understand our duty to serve the community in which we live.

Our R-2 "high research activity" Carnegie classification places us in the top 6% of all U.S. colleges and universities. Students and faculty work side by side to conduct meaningful research that makes a direct impact on Appalachia. Likewise, Marshall's Early Assurance programs help qualified undergraduates start their careers in our schools of medicine, pharmacy and physical therapy, as well as our athletic training program. High school students are also offered a jump start through our Herd Academy, a path in which college courses can be taken for as low as $25 per credit hour.

Marshall University is committed to making the students the heroes in their own stories, starting with moments of their life.

OUR Students

Our students attach high value to our small class sizes, having faculty members actively instructing in the classroom, the availability of intensive advising, exceptional student success resources, modern facilities, a growing global community and robust extracurricular programming.

The International Festival is West Virginia's largest and longest-running event of its kind, featuring international foods, world music, dance and displays representing many countries and cultures. Students are given the chance to educate the Huntington community about their culture and country through food and music.

Holi, also known as the Festival of Colors and the Festival of Love, is traditionally a two-day ceremony based on two ancient Hindu legends. Students from countries all over the world enjoyed celebrating during the 3rd annual Holi Festival held at Marshall University.

OUR Faculty

Our faculty members are leaders, mentors and cultivators of talent. They are making a real difference in the lives of our students inside and outside of the classroom. With award-winning professors in every discipline, we offer a reliable roadmap for academic accomplishment, no matter what your field of study may be.

With a grant of more than $35 million [USD] from the National Institutes of Health, the $40 million [USD], 200,000 square foot Robert C. Byrd Biotechnology Science Center is located along Third Avenue across from the Science Building. This state-of-the-art facility allows for research collaboration among faculty, staff and students from both the Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine and the College of Science.

OUR City

HARRIS RIVERFRONT PARK

ITTER PARK

PULLMAN PLAZA

Home to over 50,000 residents, Huntington is located along the Ohio River in the Tri-State region of West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Amazon.com and Toyota are just two of several global corporations which call the Huntington area home.

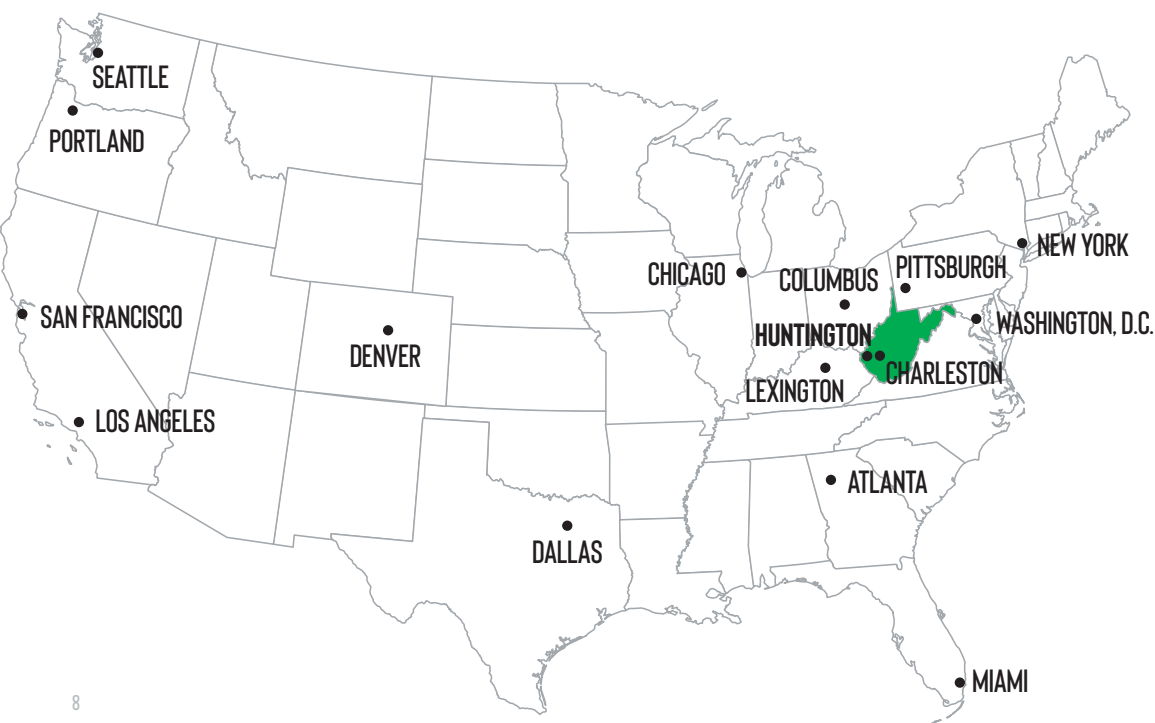

Students have the opportunity to explore the beauty that West Virginia has to offer, as well as travel to many of the most popular destinations in the U.S. Huntington is just over one hour from Washington D.C. by plane.

Huntington's Ritter Park was named among the Best Public Spaces in America by the American Planning Association.

Pullman Plaza, located only minutes from Marshall's campus, is a major downtown center for local shops and restaurants.

Concerts, music festivals and special events are held at Harris Riverfront Park with excellent views of the Ohio River.

Huntington was voted "America's Best Community" after being named the Grand Prize winner in the America's Best Communities competition, a $10 million community revitalization campaign sponsored by Frontier Communications, DISH Network, CoBank and The Weather Channel.

Known as the Jewel City, Huntington is a historic and bustling city of commerce and heavy industry that has long flourished due to its ideal location on the Ohio River at the mouth of the Guyandotte River. The golden dome of the city's courthouse is just one of its many architectural landmarks.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE Institute

Marshall University's English Language Institute prepares students for undergraduate and graduate study in the United States. Our rigorous program provides top-quality English language training instruction by our highly experienced instructors. In addition, students will:

- Present spoken and written ideas accurately and effectively in English
- Read, understand, and critically evaluate written texts
- Use the internet and Marshall library databases to conduct academic research
- Learn and share cultures in various settings

PROGRAM FEATURES

The English Language Institute prepares students to successfully complete a degree program at Marshall University. Our English language classes provide students with the opportunity to learn academic skills while improving their English skills. Our program offers four levels of instruction: Foundational, Intermediate, Academic Preparatory 1, and Academic Preparatory 2.

Once enrolled in a level, students will take three integrated courses: Reading-Vocabulary, Grammar-Writing and Listening-Speaking for a total of 18 instructional hours. Special topics courses are offered on an as-needed basis, including Business English, Ceramic Art for English, American Culture and Civics, and Social Media and Gaming Online.

PROGRAM DURATION

The program can be completed in as little as one semester for students entering at Level 3 for undergraduate and Level 4 for graduate. Students entering at lower levels may need to spend additional semesters before advancing to their Marshall University degree programs.

A HOME OF YOUR Own

As a first-year student, you can make your home in one of several residence hall communities. We have multiple dining options across campus, including restaurants like Chick-Fil-A, La Famiglia, Steak-n-Shake and Denny's.

Living on campus gives you the chance to make friends and find community through programing, activities, and Living Learning Community Houses.

Even though Marshall’s campus is easy to walk, each student has the option to have their own car on campus.

Research

Marshall University is a premier, regional research university with world-class facilities. We support an active and ambitious research agenda including modern DNA, digital forensics and biotechnology research labs.

The Marshall University Forensic Science Center's forensic DNA laboratories conduct DNA databasing on convicted offenders for the West Virginia State Police Forensic Laboratory. DNA profiles of convicted offenders become part of a state and national searchable database.

R₂ DESIGNATION

For the first time in its history, Marshall University has been selected as an “R₂” research institution by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education.

This designation places Marshall among the top six percent of colleges and universities in the nation, and is the second-highest classification an institution can receive from the organization.

For its latest rankings, Carnegie surveyed more than 4,000 universities and put just 139 in the R₂ category, which includes universities that confer at least 20 research / scholarship doctorates annually and spend a minimum $5 million per year on research. With its R₂ designation, Marshall joined the likes of universities such as Baylor, Wake Forest and Lehigh.

Marshall jumped up two levels with the new designation thanks to an increase in the number of research awards and doctoral dissertations. Research expenditures at Marshall have increased 35% over the past 2 1/2 years, from $23 million to $31 million, and are expected to climb even further this year.

An aerial photograph of the Marshall University campus during the 'golden hour' of sunset. The sun is low on the horizon, casting a warm, orange glow over the scene. In the foreground, a large, multi-story red brick building with many windows is prominent. To its left, a modern building with a curved glass facade is visible. The campus is surrounded by lush green trees, some of which are in the foreground, partially obscuring the view. In the background, a river flows through the city, and a bridge can be seen in the distance. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and scenic.
